L. W. PAYETTE LETTER.

EMMETT, Idaho, Aug. 31, 1883.

ED. WORLD: I believe a great chief to said his braves were many as the ves on the trees. I think that chief ant candidates. Every one but your able servant has a fish to fry in the ning election. Now I want to ask the oring voter why, if there is anything an office, hadn't a poor man, that needs ought to have it! It seems strange to that laboring men will go to primaries

I nominate rich men, whose interests rich men's interests, and ignore workmen whose only drawback is they do not money to electioneer with. Most of our candidates have held the same, or er offices before, and I have in my mind a man that is comparatively a poor man, who has done more for Ada and the counties since I came here than any of the others. Now men whom he benefitted, and who ought to know er, are trying to defeat him. I think but laboring men forsee their own

COUNTY to assist those who need no assis-

e. It's not my purpose to boom any man, but for the man who wants a cent a half's mouth interest, to lend the ey back to the man that produced it, ve no sympathy nor vote either. It as as every where—any one can get to ostable, or go over to help nominate a ringman, out the ones that haule

"jingle" or oases the job, have office on their backs so old its turning yel-

I know that taxation in Ada county is assessed upon one hundred dollar personal property, and my various are $11.50, and the men that made our man's taxes so high ask his vote again, and I know it's not only so but in every county. The poor property is in sight, and the assessor. The cattle man's is in the and the assessor don't get it, and one must pay. I don't object to of-holders getting a fat salary, but I like the fat salary to go to those and a producer, and user of that which builds up our homes and as-ists those that come among us to build up honest homes, make their burdens light, and the country better for their being in it

Yours,
"YEOMAN."

PAYETTE NOTES
EMMETT, Idaho, Sept. 1st, 1883.

EDITOR WORLD: It seems your forests must all be consumed, by the smoke we have. It is impossible to distinguish objects half a mile away.
Salmon and Davis, the young boys that started for Nevada with stolen horses, after a hearing in Boise city were held to bail in $1,000 each, in default of which, they languisheth.

The threshing machine is heard once more in the land, and wheat brings 70 cts. per bushel.

Most of our laboring men are about going with the different saw mill firms, to the woods, to cut logs for another year. Is the timber law changed?

Services are to be held in our new Methodist church next Sunday.

The primaries passed off with the usual wire pulling, and I think to the satisfaction of the elect. Each party sent three delegates and were a little mad because they couldn't send more.

I don't know as Emmett aspires to any fat office this year. We will soon see some men that are mighty glad to see us, and tell us what a nice ranch we have and how well we are getting along, and won't know us two months later.

On our way home from Idaho city Mrs. Eli Anderson presented us with a pan of apples. I tell you they looked good enough to eat, and Mr.
A. has a whole orchard full of fine fruit.

Mr. Alex Wright, who has been holding the fort for the ditch company during the last winter and summer, is about to leave for Wood River.

Ducks are coming down. Grouse are plenty on small streams. Forest fires are driving the deer down to the low hills.

Let's see; is the law in force now?
"Believe not."

A good many of our citizens are foolish enough to shake with cold this hot weather, then turn right around and in half an hour swear it's the hottest weather they ever saw.
